Paul Daxsel managed to elegantly capture the essence and philosophy of the Jugendstil movement with his creations. The artist preferred neutral colors, combined them with matte, opalescent glazes and relied on relief-like, coloraccentuated details.

Our pair of vases was designed by Paul Daxsel around 1906. It is representative of the oeuvre of this exceptional artist. The delicate opalescent dewdrops run down the trunks of a lush birch forest surrounded by golden light.
