Dynamism and reduction to the essentials - this is what constitutes the objects of Werkstatte Hagenauer Wien. Based on these characteristics, one can recognize both serially executed utilitarian objects as well as unique artistic pieces by the Hagenauer brothers.

This elegant wall mirror was also reduced to the essence, making it an early pioneer of the minimalist design movement, which emerged in the 1960s. Hidden behind the downward tapering mirror plate is the object's only ornament, a playful loop. The latter also serves as a suspension to attach the mirror to the wall. Thus, in typical Hagenauer fashion, function and aesthetics are harmoniously combined here.
